Buy now! Build now! (and we're not kidding!)

What! Are you planning to invest your money in the market? How about contributing more of your hard-earned money to the government? Stuffing cash in the upholstery?

What better time to buy and build than now? When will you decide to invest in your life (and lifestyle) and take charge of your own future? The government is not here to help!

2009 is probably the best time in years to build. Prices are down on building materials. Labor is readily available. Builders and contractors are looking for new projects. And don't fall for the "but the banks aren't loaning money". If you qualify (and our clients do), then there's a mortgage available for your dream log home.

The question is - "Are you an Ostrich or an Eagle?" You decide, and then fly over and let's get started on your log home ideas. (FYI - Only one of these birds can fly!)

The home at right is under construction. The homes shown on the bottom of page 4 are under construction. Are you seeing the pattern?

These folks are all "eagles". They are making the move and "living their dream".

It's your turn and with our new plant online (see page 2), we're here and ready to help.

New Log Pricing! (simple)

We have five different log styles with five different price points. Too many!

So, here's the simple (and lazy) way we're going to handle pricing this fall/winter.

Solid Cedar Timber & Square Logs - at SCT pricing. Round Logs, Hand-hewn Logs, and UDLs - at Round pricing.

Confused? Call 800.600.5647, ext 99.

A word about freight

(Where you build does NOT make a difference)

While the cost of fuel appears to be dropping, the cost of shipping is not dropping at the same rate. (And if you believe that gas will stay down, there's still a bridge available in Brooklyn.)

Not to worry. Our shipping fees are the same as they've been for years - a flat 4% nationwide. And if you're building here in Colorado your shipping is only 1.1% (plus 2.9% state tax = 4%).

Why and how do we do this? It's just "cost averaging". The shipments to closer and further distances are averaged. Why would we do that? Because, it's not fair to penalize someone that may not be fortunate enough to be building in Colorado!

We're only joking, but the point is this method keeps the playing field level. (And for those of you that may want to pick up your logs at our plant in Colorado Springs, remember to factor in Colorado state tax.)

If you couple this savings with the new pricing discussed above, I can't believe you're still reading. Start dialing - 800.600.5647

The $1,000 and ONE Promo

(WHAT we can do for you!)

Put your dream on paper sooner! Our Fall/Winter Promo offers you the chance to get your plans started with only $1,000 down. (Try that with an architect!) Here's how it works:

Meet with one of our designers for an in-depth planning session. You'll first see a sketch of your floor plan and main elevation. Next you'll receive 1/4" scale floor plans and elevations. Take your time, review your design, and mark your changes. Return those plans and you'll then receive second preliminaries. Mark any final changes and return the second set of plans. From those we'll prepare your final plans with details. This allows you plenty of time to "live in" your log home plan.

It starts with a $1,000 down payment. Each month you make an additional payment of 1% of the log package price. In 10 months you have your 10% down payment and you're ready to pick your log home package delivery date.

Be sure to bring your ideas - in words, pictures and drawings. Clip out the photos you like from your favorite magazines (from any home magazine, not just log home magazines) -the more, the better!

Introducing our "latest addition"... the new mill in

It's bigger (twice our former size), it's better, it's faster, and it's operational. After a two and a half year quest, here are photos of our new mill. With the opening of our new log plant, your new log home will be even better. Improvements in quality control and handling are just part of the improvements at our new mill. In the photo above you can see the "decks" of logs as they come off the pre-cut line. What you may not realize is that the logs are being pre-sorted as they are stacked into the units. The advantage to you - quicker stack time and lower on-site labor cost.

All logs are inside from start to finish and are wrapped before being moved outside. And when loaded onto the truck for delivery, we require all of our wrapped units be additionally tarped for travel. Call us old-fashioned, but we believe your logs deserve the extra attention.

From left to right you see our 32" up-cut saw making an end cut. This Northfield saw and the Tiger Stop precision measuring system to the left of the saw allow us to cut logs to less than 1/32" tolerance.

Colorado Springs!

The second photo shows the starting cut for the window and door seal system. We take the time to make all cuts in the plant. That way once the logs are on-site there is no wasted time and motion during stack and assembly of your log home. A small amount of time well spent in our plant saves you a lot of time (and mistakes) on the jobsite.

The last photo (at left) shows a mortise pocket being routed into the side of a flat log. With this attention to detail you can be assured of not only a great looking log home but also a tight-fitting log home, a log home that will be air-tight now and in the future.

After nearly two years, it's finally over!

And what changed? The politicians are still in charge! It would have been better if "we the people" had won?

"Some days you're the windscreen and some days you're the bug!"

Now IS the time to live your dream - Buy Logs! Build Now! Time's a wastin'.

Your money is worth more invested in YOU than in anything else. Your dream is still a log home in the country. Make that dream a reality. Now is your time.
